

Leadership Prep School
Gifted and Talented
Program

General Information

Individuals often demonstrate their gifts and talents in many ways; one individual may possess exceptional academic talents and another may be an exceptional artist, musician, athlete, or performer. Leadership Prep School's Gifted Program is designed for the student who demonstrates the need for advanced academic challenges and for opportunities to develop his/her creative thinking. Leadership Prep School's Gifted Program may not meet the needs of students whose gifts and talents are in areas other than advanced academics unless the student participates in the various fine arts classes that are currently offered.

Demonstrating academic gifts and talents often is developmental, so not all gifted and talented students exhibit the need for advanced academic challenges at the same point in their education. Furthermore, some gifted and talented students excel in one area yet require grade level instruction in other areas. The younger the student is, the greater the possibility that his/her skills are developing at different rates in different subject areas. As the child ages, these differences often are minimized through instruction, life experiences, and/or maturity. It is possible that a young student does not develop the skills needed for success in the gifted program until later in his/her school experience, a relatively common occurrence among kindergartners and first graders. For these students, the issue may not necessarily be one of giftedness, but may be an issue of timing given general classroom performance and/or the expectations of the gifted program. Consequently, Leadership Prep School allows students to be assessed for the gifted program at any grade level. Parents considering having their child assessed for the gifted program should reflect on their child's overall educational needs, intellectual curiosity, degree of self-motivation, task commitment, willingness to work independently, awareness that tasks sometimes have more than one correct solution, and comfort with connections between language arts, history, science, and math.

Teacher referral is not required for the gifted program's assessment. Referrals may be initiated by the parent, the teacher, or the student, or someone else. This packet includes an explanation of the assessment process, and an overview of the gifted program's curriculum. If you decide to have your child assessed for the gifted program, please complete the information in the Gifted Referral Packet, and return it to school by the due date.

Assessment and Services Timeline

Referral packet must be returned to Hope Angell by the date and time indicated on the bottom of the Referral Information page.

All tests administered are conducted at the student's campus during the regular school day.

*Kindergartners are assessed in January. Assessment results are sent home in February. Services begin in March.

*Students in all other grades are administered assessments in the fall. Services begin the fall semester.

Gifted and Talented Assessments and What They Mean

Decisions regarding participation in the Gifted and Talented program are based upon an abundance of information gathered during the assessment process, including both standardized test scores and behavioral data provided by the parent and the teacher. The scores reflect specific academic skills and abilities related to the expectations of successful gifted students. A campus committee consisting of at least three individuals reviews the results and the behavioral data to make participation decisions. Only assessment data gathered from Leadership Prep School administered tests are utilized in making these decisions. Gathering information from identical sources allows a common standard to be used when measuring student abilities. In general, LPS seeks to serve students who are performing or show the potential to perform at or above the second standard deviation from the mean on these standardized tests. Test results and/or assessment information from outside practitioners, clinicians, and/or psychologists are not admissible.

Ability tests measure students' ability to learn. Ability scores are considered a representation of the ability to learn new tasks or solve problems, especially in the absence of direct instruction. These are important skills in the gifted program since much of the instruction is abstract, open-ended, and student-directed. Students are expected to make complex connections in his/her reasoning and to work and think independently.

Achievement tests measure what students have learned.

Leadership Prep School will administer the following assessments to determine the need for gifted services:

- Ability in specific domains (Verbal and Quantitative)
Cognitive Ability Tests - Verbal & Quantitative (CogAT)
- Reasoning or Fluid intelligence
Cognitive Ability Tests - Nonverbal (CogAT)
- Achievement in specific academic areas
Measure of Academic Progress (MAP)

Scores are sent home as soon as they are released to the school and are shared with your child's classroom teacher. The goal of gifted assessment is to gather important information not only about what a student knows, but how a student learns. Please note. Leadership Prep School does not support test preparation courses and/or materials as they frequently skew test results making it far more difficult to determine appropriated placement.

Referral Deadlines

Leadership Prep School conducts open, rolling referral, meaning that any student may be referred at any time during the school year. However, we have specific assessment windows. First through 9th grade students are assessed in the fall for services that begin that semester. Kindergarten students are assessed in January for services to begin in March.

Students may be referred for the gifted program by their parents, teachers, counselors, principals, or by the students themselves. Students are assessed during the regular school day.

Kinder Referral Deadlines:

January 31, 2017

Grades 1-9 Referral Deadlines:
